CAPITAL GOSSIP AND
PROVINCIAL NEWS

No Income Tax Next Year

There will be no provincial income tax legislation introduced at the coming session of the legislature, according to advice sent by Premier Greenfield to the Calgary Board of Trade, in answer to an enquiry. The Premier has stated that it is not the intention of the government to advance this legislation at present.

More Rural Phones

As a result of a campaign launched by Hon. V. W. Smith, Minister of Telephones, there has been considerable increase in the number of rural phones now in use, and the statement is made that the government now controls 32,000 phones.

Seed Grain Being Sold

The surplus seed grain of the farmers of the province which is being handled through the government cleaning plant at Edmonton is now being offered for sale by the crops branch of the Department of Agriculture. Requests for this grain are now being received at the office of this branch and those who wish to purchase should apply there.

Big Dairy Convention

One of the largest dairy conventions ever held in Alberta is billed to take place at Calgary January 23 to 25, when the dairymen of all western Canada will meet there in annual conference. Delegates from the four western provinces will be in attendance. The Alberta provincial dairy convention will be held at the same time and a very large gathering of dairymen during that week is expected. The convention will discuss all branches of dairying and the problems attendant upon each. The recently inaugurated system of government grading cream by the provincial department of agriculture, which has proved such a success, will be an interesting topic for discussion.

New Train Service

Train service has now been inaugurated over the twelve-mile extension of the Alberta Government Railway west of Lacombe. There will be now three trains a week over the line from Lacombe to the new terminus and return.

Home For Feeble Minded

Rapid progress is being made on the new home for the feeble minded children just north of Edmonton, and it is expected that the new institution will be ready for occupancy early in the year. There are now two hundred inmates ready to be housed in the new home. Occupational work will be a strong feature of the system of treatment for patients. Dr. W. J. McAllister is to be the superintendent of the home. He is now engaged in special training at the Waverly Institute in Massachusetts.

May Settle In Alberta

In view of the fact that a large number of British officers will be demobilized from the army in India shortly, and that these men have a small amount of capital and are desirous of securing land in the Overseas Dominions an effort is being made to interest them in Alberta. Major F. Yeats Brown, one of these officers, is now on a tour of Canada, and was in Alberta the past week, for the purpose of gathering information and investigating conditions.

WOMEN CANDIDATES IN BRITISH ELECTIONS

With eleven names of women candidates the Independent Liberal party has more in the field than any other party, writes the London correspondent of The New York Tribune. Labor comes next with six, all of whom are well known for their work on public bodies. In several cases the women have disdained parties and are standing as independents.

Aside from Viscountess Astor, four other candidates are titled. Lady Cooper, who is campaigning at Walsall, is a Conservative and wife of Sir Richard Ashmore Cooper, the second baronet, who has been a member for Walsall since 1910. Sir Richard, however, is retiring from political life, and his wife is hoping to fill his place in Parliament. Lady Cooper comes from Yorkshire, and is the daughter of a clergyman. She is a popular London hostess and entertains a great deal at her beautiful town house in Carlton Gardens. The Hon. Lady Barlow belongs to the Independent Liberal party and has already had some experience in electorology.

Distinguished Candidates.

She was one of Mrs. Wintringham's workers when that lady took up her campaign in Louth, Lincolnshire. She is prospective, Independent Liberal candidate for the High Peak division and was elected to this position a year ago. During that time she had worked in her constituency and had addressed more than seventy meetings already. When the Reform Club, one of the leading political clubs, gave a banquet for Lord Gladstone at Manchester recently Lady Barlow was chosen as one of the speakers. Lady Currie and Lady Lawson will also represent the I. L. P. The former is a daughter of the late Thomas Hanbury, who had the famous gardens at La Morla in Italy, and wife of Sir James Currie. Lady Currie assisted her husband when he was director of the training branch of the Ministry of Munitions, and this official departmental experience will probably be of help to her now. She will stand for Devises and Lady Lawson will contest the seat for Bedford.

CONSERVATIVES ENTER BRITISH COMMONS WITH A MAJORITY OVER ALL

London, Nov. 16.—With only 28 constituencies to hear from at 6.30 o'clock tonight, the returns showed the Conservatives had elected 340 members to the house of commons, or 33 more than a majority of the voting members. The Asquithian Liberals had elected 59 members, the Labor party 130, the Georgians 43 and other parties 15, making a total of 587 members out of the 615 to be chosen.

LATEST ELECTION SUMMARY

London, Nov. 18.—Following is the latest summary of the results of the elections in the British house of commons:

Conservatives	346
Liberal	141
Labor	62
Georgians	47
Others	17

GERMAN REPARATIONS

One of the biggest issues of the forthcoming British election campaign will be government policy toward German reparations. That issue will be forced to the front because it involves the degree of friendship or alliance between France and Britain, and because the whole fabric of international finance is concerned. The experts themselves are sharply divided on how much ought to be expected from Germany, and groups of bankers in Paris and London are at loggerheads.

The proposition now before the Reparations Commission is to give Germany a moratorium of five years. France regards that this is almost equivalent to the guillotine on the whole indemnity arrangement. Germany, many obtained a moratorium until the first of the year, and in the meantime flooded the country with excess currency, and driven the mark, internationally into lower depths. Would a five-year moratorium improve prospects for resumption of indemnity payments? No doubt, effective measures for rehabilitating the mark could be undertaken in Germany, if the prospect of being required to pay billions of dollars were removed. France would much rather have the indemnities and let Germany stagnate. Britain desires a Germany recovered to business vigor, and paying indemnities, more or less. But the British people apparently have little expectation of obtaining substantial indemnity payments, and look to recovery more from reconstruction of trade than payments in cash.

After two or three years, German, has paid, in cash indemnities, only $400,000,000 out of about $32,000,000,000 contracted for in the Versailles treaty. Was this amount all Germany could pay? Assuredly not. The mark was sold out on foreign markets to the tune of $2,000,000,000 approximately. The Keynes doctrine of German inability to obey the Versailles treaty relates to the payment of the whole $32,000,000,000, not $400,000,000, which is less than half what France paid in a few months in 1871 when the dollar was infinitely higher in real value than now. The French have a deficit of billions of francs in endeavoring to get the devastated areas reconstructed, and so far, have been paying practically all their own costs, while German industry is more prosperous than French. The world may not sympathize with mistakes French political deal, which has managed to put the country in an unfavorable light in many matters, but it must believe in the French demand for better treatment in the indemnity deal.

A Professor of Botany

Another notable person is Dame Helen Gwynne Vaughan, a Unionist candidate. She is a professor of botany to the University of London, a distinguished position, and holds the Trail medal of the Linnean Society for her researches into protoplasm. For a time she filled the deputy chair of convocation at her university and has held many other important academic positions. She was commandant in France of Queen Mary's Army Auxiliary Corps and it was she who supervised all the details of the laying out of the camps. It was due to her wise though firm discipline that the "Waacs," as this corps was known, became such a thoroughly efficient and valuable arm of the British service. Another scientific would-be candidate is Mrs. Ogilvie Gordon, who was president of the National Council of Women, which is usually an annual office from 1916 until 1920, and who has written numerous books dealing with the difficult problems of geology.

Labor Party Candidate

She was the gold medalist of her year in zoology and comparative anatomy at the University of London, and in 1895 she took the degree of Ph. D. in geology and palaeontology at the University of Munich. This last was a record achievement, as the senate of the Munich University had never before bestowed the degree on a woman. Mrs. Gordon is one of the four women who are standing as Coalition Liberal and her campaign will be waged at the old cathedral town of Canterbury. The Labor party's most prominent woman candidate is Miss Margaret Bondfield, who has been very much to the fore lately as a leader of trade unionism among her sex. She has been an official representative at many Labor and Socialist conventions, not only in this country, but in Europe and in the States. She has the advantage of being an extremely fluent and attractive speaker in public.

Land of the Lost." Jack Conway, a favorite Universal director, guided the filming of the story.

Opposite Gibson, Barbara Bedford
will be seen in another of those charming feminine characterizations by which she has gained popularity in pictures within the past two years.

In principal roles will be seen Joseph Girard, L. C. Shumway, Vic Potel, Gloria Davenport, Frank Lanning and Edith Yorke.

The locale of the story is "The Land of the Lost," located somewhere in Colorado, but not in the section carefully mapped out for tourists.
It's sort of a bandits' and horse thieves' paradise where murder is a normal diversion.

Weird romance and mystery are said to add a real punch to the dramatic plot of the story.

PLENTY OF PUNCH IN "STEP ON IT"

New Gibson Film Lively

Mystery, romance, typically western action and the punch of a plot
from the pen of Courtney Ryley Cooper are promised in the Universal special attraction, "Step On It,"
in which Hoot Gibson will be seen in starring performance at the Empress Theater next Friday and Saturday.

Jack Conway directed the filming of the Cooper story, which was adapted by Arthur Statter, now editor of the short reel and serial scenario department at Universal City.

Barbara Bedford, a charming and capable actress, will be seen in the feminine leading role opposite Gibson. Others in support are Joseph

Girard, Vic Potel, L. C. Shumway,

The story is laid in "The Land of the Lost," a section of unmapped, barren territory in the state of Colorado, a paradise for horse and cattle thieves. In this local action of a mystery nature takes place.

An element of the weird and uncanny is injected into the story through the disappearance of large herds of cattle, driven to the edge of a deep sluiceway and absolutely untraceable from there on.

Robert Stead Writes Once More of Canadian Homestead Life

"Neighbours," a Happy Novel of the Northwest, His Latest and Best

The Second Great
Wave of Settlement
The Theme of an Absorbing
Romance

Stead finds Delightful
Material in the Modern Saskatchewan Home.

ROBERT STEAD,
Author of "Neighbours," "Dennis
Grant," "The Cowpuncher," "The Homesteaders," etc.

When Robert Stead was only a lad, I see from a recent biographical sketch before me, he bought out a lumber mill. I wonder if his memories are at all connected with the opening paragraph of this latest novel of his, "Neighbours."
"My earliest recollection links
back to a grey stone house by a road entering a little Ontario town. Across the road was a millpond, and across the millpond was a mill; an old fashioned wooden mill which was the occasion and support of the little town.
Beside the mill was a water-wheel,
not a modern turbine, but a wooden wheel which, on sunny days, sprayed a mist of jewels into the prodigality
of a fairy prince."

Surely there must be much of Robert Stead himself in a book which is so instinct with simple reality as this one.

"Neighbours" opens in a little Ontario town, as described above,
where two families of young people grow up together. In the course of events, each brother and sister is left without ties in the home, and both families decide to settle in the West. They make the long trip to the Saskatchewan country, where each takes up a homestead. From this point on, "Neighbours" is not only a fascinating novel, but a permanent contribution to history. The account of the building of a homestead community on the western plains will be an authentic reference, generations after the homesteader has disappeared—for it is presented with beautiful faithfulness and understanding. A vein of genuine humour enters the story here also,

which is not lost to the close. Old Jake appears on the scene as official
"locator" for the gullible "greenhorn" settler, and his methods and temperament are an education in themselves. I have read somewhere in the press that Stead had a hard time censoring Jake for book form.
It can easily be believed, for despite the author's efforts, or thanks, perhaps, to his broadmindedness, a great deal of the original still remains.
"Shouting his triumph to the gods forever." He and his wife, "Bella Donna" are a refreshing interlude wherever they appear.

The variety of the characters
which Stead has brought together in the story, does credit to his ver-

its Best.

satility and insight. They not only add to the feeling of reality which pervades the book, but are a chief part of its charm and readability.
There is the real western farmer,
the Scotch family, "The Sneezits," a Polish family, the little English widow—and Spoof. Spoof is the young Englishman who supplies the touch of mystery and unexpectedness for the love story which will keep the reader on his toes up to the very last.

For good reading and a real appreciation of Canadian literature,
"Neighbours" is a book indeed. Outside of the fact that it will probably be one of the best selling books of the year, it deserves high praise as a delightful piece of work. Stead is one author who has never "let the public down" through a series

ADVENTURES OF ROBINSON CRUSOE COMING HERE AS SCREEN SERIAL

General Advance Story

"Teach, but don't preach!"
A famous educator once gave this advice to a group of teachers and parents. All of us would probably be better educated if we could have obtained
the necessary knowledge unconsciously,
but being human we rebel at having it forced upon us.

Universal is cleverly entertaining and educating at the same time by means of popular chapter plays, the latest one being "The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe," which comes to the Empress Theater soon.

A number of Biblical parables are touched upon. The old adage advising children to obey their parents if they would avoid trouble is the cause for the entire story, for Crusoe was advised by his parents to not set sail on the sea of uncertainty.

There has been much speculation as to the exact color and nationality of Friday, Crusoe's faithful servant. He has been painted very black by some reviewers and yellow by others. In reality he was a Caribbean Indian and described by Defoe, his "father-author," as being bronze.

Boy Scouts throughout the world will be especially interested in the resourcefulness of Crusoe. Cast on a desert island with scarcely any clothing, he outfitted himself in a suit of hides with the skill of a professional tailor. He built a house, made and set traps, made bread and tanned skins as perfectly as if he had been born to the life.

Robert F. Hill, director of "The Great Radium Mystery," "The Flame-ing Disc," and "The Adventures of Tarzan," directed this Universal chapter-play.

SHEIK'S DAUGHTER AMUSES
PLAYERS

Film Company at Work in Arabia
Entertained by Small Girl

"The Sheikh's Wife," a spectacular
French production made in Arabia,
will be shown at the Empress Theater on Wednesday and Thursday. In addition to the cast of talented French actors who made the journey from their native land to Arabia, large numbers of full-blooded Arabs appear in the piece. Not the least important of these is a little native girl, the daughter of a sheik who rules a tribe of the desert. Much of the picture was made on the territory and in the camp of this oriental potentate.

In off moments various members of the cast grew fond of playing with the sheik's little two year old daughter. She, on her part, grew equally attached to the Europeans. Their watches, articles which she had never seen before were a never failing source of delight to her. She loved to watch the second hand go ticking around. Finally it was determined to make use of her whimsical little personality in the picture.

After some difficulty, her father's consent was obtained. As an actress, the little daughter of the sheik made a hit with the members of the company and proved herself a clever young film star. In spite of her lack of years and experience, she showed a marked ability and a high degree of intelligence. Several closeups illustrate her unusual facial expression.

In the picture she plays the part of the little daughter who is born to the sheik and his young English wife. In the plot she has an important role, for it is she who saves her mother's life by pushing up the sheik's gun when, maddened by despair and jealousy, he tries to take her life. In the end, husband and wife are happily reunited.

ARE YOU UNDER-WEIGHT?

There is just one reason for this—you are not getting the good food you eat. It is not the amount of food, but what you are able to digest, that builds up firm flesh and good red blood.

PE-RU-NA

It helps digestion as well as nerves—purifies the blood as it regulates the bowels—plumps the figure as it clears the complexion. PE-RU-NA builds, re-vitalizes, energizes the whole system. It is a marvellous tonic—and just what you need these spring days. Let us help you to gain in health and strength. Get a bottle to-day—sold everywhere.

PE-RU-NA COMPANY, 344 St. Paul Street, Montreal

THE ANTISEPTIC BABY

We can sterilize his bottle, we can boil his little mug; We can bake his flannel bandages and disinfect the rug That envelops him when he partakes of medicated air, But there's one impossibility that leaves us in despair— And a not unjustifiable alarm, you will allow— To wit: We fear 'twould never do to sterilize the cow.

So we feed the baby Medicus's hygienic dope, And we wash his face with germicidal antiseptic soap;

And we brush his little toofums—or the place where they will be— With diluted gloethymoline, most sanitalee;

Then despair to see a milky effervescence supervene On a countenance which heretofore was surgically clean.

Thus, although we strive to conquer every septic circumstance, Yet we greatly fear a ghastly alimentary mischance; For albeit we bake and boil his things and scrub and soak and souce— As if in his anatomy forever cleaning house—

The recklessness with which he sucks his vagrant tiny thumb Imperils much his precious antiseptic little "tum." We are careful of his hours, we are thoughtful of his toys; We are mindful of his sorrows, and judicious of his joys; We are prayerfully considerate of needful discipline, Of my little "Mother's Handbook" and the precepts writ therein; And we strive to render sterile all designed for mouth or "tum," But one frightful danger menaces— we cannot boil his thumb.

LOCAL & PERSONAL

Miss Tilly Honold, of Nobleford, was a visitor to Macleod this week.

Mrs. T. B. Martin spent a few days in Lethbridge this week visiting friends.

Major Barnes will receive tenders for the installation of gas stoves and pipe in our armories. A plan may be seen at his office.

Mrs. R. MacKenzie underwent a major operation at the Macleod hospital on Tuesday morning of this week. Mrs. MacKenzie is progressing favorably.

The G. W. V. A. wish to thank Mrs. Dowson and the young ladies who so kindly assisted in making Poppy Day such a success.—This item appeared in last week's issue of The Times in a rather disconnected form—we apologize.

The marriage of Mr. Campbell Rankin of Twin Butte, Alta., and Miss Harriet Bishop of Lethbridge, took place at the Macleod Presbyterian Manse, on Saturday, Nov. 4th, Rev. J. Kennedy officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Rankin left for Twin Butte, where they will in future reside.

The Hutterite Brethren have commenced on the building of a horse barn, 64 feet x 145 feet—in which will be used 60,000 feet of lumber and 80,000 shingles to roof it—the biggest barn in this section of Alberta. Incidentally, the McLaren Lumber Company is supplying the building material.

His Honor Judge A. M. McDonald, held a special sitting of District Court on Tuesday, Nov. 21st in the matter of Graham vs Etherington—the case being one for debt and having been adjourned at the regular sittings of the District Court. Judgment was given for part of the claim. Joseph Hicks appeared for the plaintiff, McDonald and Martin for the defence.

A disastrous fire occurred at Alex Gillen's ranch, 13 miles south of Macleod, on Sunday morning last. Alex' big barn was totally destroyed—also a valuable team of horses perished. 40 tons of green feed and 1000 bushels of oats stored in the barn were lost along with 12 sets of harness. Loss is estimated at nearly $3,000, and no insurance was carried. The cause of the fire is unknown.

A U. F. A. convention is to be held in Macleod on Thursday, Nov. 30. The delegates will assemble in the Town Hall at 10 a. m. and business will occupy the full day and an evening session has been arranged at which it is expected the Hon. Herbert Greenfield will be present and give an address. Pres. H. W. Wood and Mr. G. G. Coote, M. P. will also speak. The public of Macleod and district are invited. This convention is for the Federal riding of Macleod and about 100 delegates are expected. There was some uncertainty as to where it would be held, but Macleod was finally settled upon. It is the wish of those in charge that the gathering will be successful and that the delegates will be pleased with their visit to our town.

HOW GERMANY LAID

A TRAP FOR FRANCE

Throughout his memoirs the ex-kaiser has sought to prove that Germany was like him, "the little friend of all the world," that she tried for peace everywhere, but that her good intentions were met by injurious suspicions. He discusses the Great Powers one by one and seeks to show what Germany did for each of them. In order to prove his friendship for Gt. Britain he writes in one place:

"In February, 1900," says the ex-kaiser, "while the Boer war was in progress, and while I was with the fleet at Heligoland attending the manoeuvres of ships of the line, after having been present at the swearing in of recruits at Wilhelmshafen, I received news by telegraph from Wilhelmstrasse, via Heligoland, that Russia and France had proposed to Germany to make a joint attack on England, now that she was involved elsewhere and cripple her sea traffic. I objected and ordered that the proposal be declined. Since I assumed that Paris and St. Petersburg would present the matter at London in such a way as to make it appear that Berlin had made the above proposal to both of them, I immediately telegraphed from Heligoland to Queen Victoria and to the Prince of Wales (Edward) the facts of the Russo-French proposal and its refusal by me. The Queen answered expressing hearty thanks the Prince of Wales with an expression of astonishment."

A German Plot

Edward's expression of astonishment appears to have been merited. One gathers that he was suspicious of his nephew's revelations. Now Stephane Lauzanne, editor of "Le Matin," after an examination of the documents says flatly that the ex-kaiser is a liar. He asserts that the proposal that there should be a league against Great Britain came from Germany, but he believes that it was not made so much for the purpose of making war upon her as to trap France into some indiscreet proposals which then would be betrayed by Germany to the other European powers, and would have the effect of turning them against France. But despite the fact that French sympathy was with the Boers, and that anti-British feelings had never been more intense with the mob since many years the French statesmen showed not the slightest intention of falling into the German trap. Hostile as France may have been then to Britain, she was still more hostile to Germany, and had that country proposed an alliance for the purpose of warring upon Boerzobul France would no doubt have rejected it.

Offered German Alliance

The facts of the matter which have been misrepresented by the ex-kaiser are as follows, according to M. Lauzanne:

On October 23, 1899, Paris received a despatch from the French ambassador at Berlin which reported an important conversation with the German Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Von Bulow, in which the latter said:

"I consider that it would be to the interest of our two countries to come to an understanding and even to conclude a treaty. Nowhere in the world are they opposed to each other and they can render each other a mutual service. They only have to forget the historical difference which until now has kept them apart from one another. The necessity for this agreement arises especially out of the present situation. England is going to engage in the South African war. Is France disposed to allow her to do it?"

The Imperial Secretary of State had pointed out to M. De Noailles that the moment was propitious for France to unite her efforts to Germany's in restraining England from new plans of conquest. For a century England had imposed her will upon Europe. Was not the hour then striking to put an end to this state of things?

Germany or England

The afternoon the despatch was received, Delcasse, the Foreign Minister, and Waldeck Rousseau waited upon the president of the republic and discussed the matter. M. Lauzanne says that at the conference the question was put bluntly for the first time in history: "Should France make an alliance with England or Germany?"

They were agreed upon the answer. To make an alliance with Germany would be to forget Alsace-Lorraine and Delcasse used to say: "A nation is not dishonored when she is beaten or when, with an enemy's knife at her throat she signs a disastrous treaty. But she is dishonored when she ceases to protest, when she gives assent to her ruin. Misfortune is not defeat, but renunciation is."

They agreed also that Germany was entitled to a reply, and M. Delcasse thereupon answered the message by saying that he had been surprised to receive it since he had talked with the German ambassador the day before, and he had given him no hint that a matter of such moment was about to be introduced.

Germany Quits

France, he said, had not asked for anything, and therefore was to be excused for not taking the initiative in laying down the conditions of which Von Bulow had spoken. She was waiting for Germany to formulate the proposals, and promised that when they were received they would be carefully examined, with the single reservation that in no case would France accept anything likely to disturb the Franco-Russian Alliance. There never was any reply to this despatch, which on the face seemed to be receptive enough, but Germany saw that if the matter was to go further it was she and not France that would have to go on record with definite proposals hostile to England. According to Lauzanne Germany's idea was to get France committed and then convey to England, Italy and Spain proof of her hostility to them. The result would be that none of them would trust her and she would be still further isolated.

MEETING OF THE BRITISH AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY

The British and Foreign Bible Society was represented here last Sunday by the Rev. James Dession, of Calgary, who ably presented the work of the society in the Presbyterian and Methodist churches. It was organized 118 years ago, and they are now publishing the Scriptures in whole or in part in 556 different languages. Practically all the churches are receiving free of cost scriptures from the Bible Society for their missions including the Foreigners in the home land.

The society has provided the scriptures in 80 different languages in our ever growing Canada. The Anglican Church is receiving the Scriptures in 178 languages, Methodist missions in 104, Presbyterian in 134, and many other churches as well.

A most excellent and well received part of its noble work is the Bible in raised type for the blind in no less than 40 languages. They also present a copy of the bible in whole or in part to the comers to this wonderful new land in their own language.

The Bible Society employs outside of Britain 1,500 men and women native of the country in which they work. The Primate of all Canada says "as one of the leaders of the church of England in this land, I testify with deep gratitude to the work the Bible Society has done for our Indian missions."

Mr. W. G. Andrews was re-elected President and Mr. A. R. McFadden, secretary-treasurer. The collectors are the Misses Isabel McLean, Alberta McCrea, E. Cahoon, Edith Thewlis, Blossom Lyons, Annie McDonald, Mabel McCrea and Cora Hicks.

The appointed collectors will be pleased to receive any donations to further the work of this grand old society.

POSTAL INFORMATION

Parcels intended for delivery in Great Britain and European countries should be mailed in time to connect with ships leaving St John N. B. not later than December 9th at latest. These parcels must carry the regular customs declaration in every case unless prepaid at letter rate. Remember that thousands of others are mailing parcels as well as yourself and that the mails are almost beyond handling during the Christmas rush. Post yours early, even if not going outside of Canada.

The department wishes to discourage as far as possible the use of small cards and envelopes. The chief objections being. The cancelling stamp often falls on the address partially obliterating it so that it may be misdelivered or at least delayed. These small cards and envelopes do not fit the stamp cancelling machines in larger offices and this causes delay in the work. They are liable to fall out of bundles in which they are tied with larger ones and thus liable to be lost. The department wishes it understood that they refuse to be responsible for delay, misdelivery or loss of these small cards or envelopes.

Money orders intended for payment abroad should be forwarded at once, as unless these are in the exchange offices in time for the Christmas overseas mails they can not be paid until after Christmas.

little hot blood, the fastest of them being often about three quarters bred.

Thoroughbred is King

The success of the thoroughbred will not surprise horsemen, for success has never failed to rest with this breed when a specimen of sufficient soundness to carry high weight has been entered in any sort of competition with horses of any other breed. The war supplied the greatest test to which horses have been submitted in a generation, perhaps the greatest test to which the race ever was submitted, for all the breeds took part in it and in all kinds of climatic conditions, although comparatively few cavalry engagements were reported. In Allenby's campaign some seven thousand horses were used by the British, and it was found then that the toughest, fastest, stoutest hearted horses were those of thoroughbred blood. This was despite the fact that the thoroughbred was unaccustomed to the climate, where the mean temperature ranged about one hundred degrees, and time and again horses went ninety-six hours without water. In France, too, we have the testimony of horse-breeders that all breeds but the thoroughbreds disgraced themselves, and chiefly because they lacked the fighting spirit of the blood horse, which made the thoroughbred fight against wounds and hardship, just as he will fight against other horses on the race track.

The Army Remount Type

But it does not follow from this that the thoroughbred is the best fitted for all sorts of army work. For one reason the thoroughbred of sufficient soundness would be too expensive. There are not enough good thoroughbreds in the world to begin to supply the army demands. In the second place, the horse is likely to be too temperamental, too hard to handle by the average rider. So the object of the endurance tests is partly to discover what per centage of thoroughbred blood will give an animal the speed and courage of the thoroughbred so far as they are necessary for army purposes, and also to find the cold blooded horse that is best suited for the amalgam. It seems probable that either the hackney or the trotter blends best with the thoroughbred and gives the progeny more soundness and size than the original thoroughbred. The Arab, too, is recommended, and if the Arab some times lacks the necessary size he excels in quality of bone, soundness and ability to stand hardship. He is also a great weight carrier, despite his lack of inches.

Draft and Saddle

Discussing the endurance test and the desired type of army horse, the Boston Transcript says:

The riding type and the draft type differ chiefly in the shoulders of the animal. The forehand of the draft horse should be heavy—"loaded" like the driving wheels of a locomotive, so that when he "lays into the collar" the load will move by the impetus of his mere bulk without his being obliged to call his muscles into play. It is a well-known fact that the weighted locomotive wheel "pounds the rail" and is far more destructive to the roadbed than an even much greater weight more evenly distributed in a freight car, for instance. Thus the loaded shouldered horse "pounds" himself to the destruction of his front legs and the discomfort of his rider. The draft horse's work is at a slow pace. Short steps are not merely an attribute, but an asset. Speed requires long action like the "sweep" of an oarsman or the "reach" of a boxer. For this, as well as being light, the shoulders should be sloping. The trotter being a speedster, enjoys this characteristic as well as the thoroughbred. The trotter, in fact, has been developed principally along "blood" lines. The present standard bred horse is at least seven-eighths thoroughbred. It is for this reason that next to the thoroughbred the standard bred horse makes the best saddler.

The Horse as a Machine

Speaking of the quality of the bone of the Arab, which he has contributed to the thoroughbred, the writer remarks that the bone developed in a dry country differs from that of the Belgian cart horses, raised in the wet fields of Flanders, as the texture of the brookside willow differs from that of the hillside hickory. It is equine steel compared with equine iron. Mechanically the thoroughbred is a great improvement upon the Arab for he is merely the Arab improved and tested out along galloping lines for more than two hundred years. The horse that runs with the least effort will run the longest and run the fastest, and will be the easiest to ride.

HILARITY IN THE HEN YARD

Los Angeles, Nov. 22—Hilarity in the hen yard where 2,500 fowls were said to be drunk, resulted in the arrest of O. S. Steglatt, of Cudahy, a subarb, on charges of violating the Volstead Act.

Neighbors sent calls to the police that "something awful" was "going on" in Steglatt's poultry yard. The officers quickly responded and they later declared they saw 600 geese fighting, 200 ducks washing madly over the surface of a small pond, and 2,000 chickens either lying on their backs, skimming with outstretched wings about the yard or siding with the geese in their battles.

The officers pronounced the fowls all drunk and stated they found evidence that they had been partaking of sour mash. They confiscated three stills, 100 gallons of liquor and several barrels of mash. Steglatt was put in the county jail in default of $2,000 bonds.

THOROUGHBREDS WIN IN ENDURANCE TEST

Heretofore horses of Arab blood half dozen horses were thoroughbred States army, but this year the first have figured prominently in the endurance tests conducted by the United or part thoroughbred. The test is a race of three hundred miles, spread over five days, the horses to pack weight equivalent to that of a cavalryman with full equipment. Sixty per cent. of the marks are given for the condition in which the horses finish the race and forty per cent. for their average speed. This year the winner was Vendetta, a thoroughbred mare; second place went to a Morgan third to a grade American saddle horse, fourth to a thoroughbred and sixth to an Irish hunter. In other words there was thoroughbred trotter cross, fifth to a thoroughbred blood in all the horses, for the trotter originated in a thoroughbred cross like the American saddle horse and the Morgan, while every Irish hunter and indeed every good hunter carries a

George McDonald is leaving Macleod for Blairmore, where he will be working for a few months.

Constable Crump of the R. C. M. P., Lethbridge, is in town for a few days visiting friends. Mr. Crump expects to leave for England the end of this month, where he will remain for some time.

Mrs. J. P. Ross, of Granum, has gone to Medicine Hat to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Neff. Mrs. Ross is the constituency convener for the Claresholm-Macleod district of the Womens Institute.

Skating on the Muskrat last Sunday was not very good, but still a few supporters of the pastime went down and made the best of it, although one or two received rather a cool reception when the ice gave way.

Enquiries are being made by the parents of Harold Major to locate his present whereabouts. He came west on a harvest excursion in the fall of 1921, and was last heard of at Lenora, Alberta last winter. He is described as being 23 years old, of stout build, fair complexion. Anyone knowing anything about him please communicate with the local officer of the A.P.P.

St. Andrews Junior Girls Guild under the leadership of Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Tripp with Miss I. McLean as president, have through the kindness of the matron assumed responsibility for the "Cot Ward" in our hospital. A finer work for the girls guild could not have been selected nor a more interesting one for genial interest and busy hands to sew for. The first consignment of linen and fancy blankets adorn the cots in a private ward set apart by the hospital board to meet a long felt want. Visitors no doubt will be delighted to see the clean bright cots made warm by willing girl workers—May they long retain a loving interest in hospital work.

LIC LECTURES to be given in the MACLEOD TOWN HALL, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings December 5th and 6th, at 8 o'clock, by Pilgrims G. P. Pollock, Vancouver and H. Howlett, Winnipeg.

Never in the history of mankind has the unrest been so general as it is today and on every hand the question is being asked "What does it all mean?"

The student of Gods word is reminded of the words of Jesus, "Upon the earth distress of nations with perplexity; the sea and the waves (the restless, and discontented) roaring; men's hearts failing them for fear and for looking to the things coming upon the earth (society) for the powers of the heavens shall be shaken. . . . when ye see these things begin to come to pass, then know that the Kingdom of God is at hand. Look up, lift up your heads, rejoice, for your redemption draweth nigh." Matt. 24; 33, Mark 13; 29, Luke 21; 25-31

Rathwell

On Nov. 8th at 2.30 p. m. the Rathwell U.F.W.A. held their fortnightly meeting at the home of Mrs. W. H. Shields. The meeting was opened with the usual Bible reading and prayer. The minutes of the last meeting were then read and adopted. A member having been to an executive meeting at Nanton on Nov. 20 read her report stating that it had been arranged for the annual convention again to be held in Macleod the 30th inst. The address given by Mr. H. Greenfield at Edmonton to the University students on "Education and its Advantages" was then read.

Mrs. A. V. Harris gave a very interesting paper on the Radiophone, its possibilities and how society in general would be affected. After pointing out the wonders of Mother Shipton's day and how they had become ordinary everyday things to us, Mrs. Harris drew on the radio expressing the thought that to her it was a development of the wireless, she touched on the fact that today distance was of no account and what would it be when nations would be able to communicate more freely and clearly, when the voice of great preacher and speaker and the best of music would be brought to the door of all both rural and urban with such communication without any effort, will it tend to elevate and harmonise the whole. Will it make a better understanding between nations and the common people that this world would be a better place to live in. After the reading of her paper which was much enjoyed and which was much appreciated she invited discussion which was taken up. A vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. Harris for her paper. Will the Radio convey the personality of the voice of the great preacher or speaker, then who can tell what will be the outcome.

(Not by might or by power but by my Spirit saith the Lord.)
The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. D. L. Mudiman.

MAJESTIC SCENERY IN "THE CALL OF THE NORTH"

It has been said that all locations in California had been used for the movies, but when Jack Holt's first star picture for Paramount, "The Call of the North" was filmed, a virgin location was discovered up in the mountains of Inyo County, California. This is called Mammoth Mountain and is the most beautiful spot that could be imagined. Those who are delighted by scenic beauty as well as dramatic action will revel in the effects supplied in the production which comes to the Empress Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

Joseph Henabery, the director, found the location after much diligent search for scenes suitable for his purposes. These scenes represent a Hudson Bay trading post. The region is one of great pine forests and noble crags, with a background of mountains mantled in eternal snows and with many beautiful lakes. Jack Holt has a remarkably fine role in this picture, one that gives him full swing for his dashing, manly, virile interpretative genius. Beautiful Madge Bellamy is his leading woman. Noah Beery also appears in a dramatic role. The picture is an adaptation by Jack Cunningham of the play by George Broadhurst and the book, "Conjuror's House," by Stewart Edward White.

EXCELLENT PLAYERS ARE IN "THE CALL OF THE NORTH"

Quality, not quantity, rules in the cast which was selected to support Jack Holt, the newly created Paramount star who makes his debut as star in "The Call of the North," adapted from the novel "Conjuror's House," by Stewart Edward White, which will be featured at the Empress Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

The players embraced in the cast of this picture are all well known. Brief sketches of the principals are given.

Jack Holt, Star

Jack Holt is a Virginian. He was born in Farquhar County and his father was an Episcopal rector. His mother was a great great granddaughter of John Marshall, first Chief Justice of the United States. As a boy Jack attended the Virginia Military Institute. He began his motion picture career in 1916 and has appeared in such Paramount plays as "The Honor of His House," "For Better, For Worse," "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," "Midsummer Madness," "The Lost Romance" and "After the Show."

Madge Bellamy, Leading Woman

Madge Bellamy, pretty and petite, made her debut as a leading woman in motion pictures in Thomas H. Ince productions. Miss Bellamy, despite her youth, is a seasoned actress with considerable legitimate experience. She played the dream girl in "Dear Brutus" with William Gillette, and also has appeared as "Pollyanna," and in other famous dramatic roles. She is five and two inches tall, and weighs one hundred pounds.

Noah Beery, Character Actor

Noah Beery, noted for numerous powerful character roles in such pictures as "The Sea Wolf," "The Red Lantern," "The Sagebrusher" and others, has distinguished himself not only as a master of character work, but as a most prolific make-up artist. His strong, rugged features are

WHAT MADE ME HAPPY

"I was congratulating myself that I had passed the winter without catching a cold, when I got one at the beginning of last May. It was because I was run down. Being run down I had some trouble in getting rid of this cold. I was a nervous wreck. I would wake up regularly mornings feeling that some terrible calamity would take place. Although we were comfortably off, I felt sure my husband was going to lose everything. The children worried me. If they made the least noise, I would get into a terrible temper. I would scold them so that I am sure they hated me. I would be mad with myself after it was over and make up my mind never to let it happen again. I would go to bed at night and begin to think and picture dreadful things which might happen to me and my family. I would lay awake for hours, sometimes until daylight, until I was so weak that I could scarcely raise my head. I would waken next day just as tired as when I laid down. After a while I got so that I didn't care what happened. The children annoyed me and I wouldn't have cared if they had left me for good. I felt that it was only a matter of time before I would lose my mind. I knew that my symptoms were due to a run down condition and that if I could only get something to build me up, I might be all right. I knew that there must be some good tonic but most of them made such foolish claims that I was afraid of them. Happening one day to run across a leaflet about Carnol, I was impressed with the moderate way this preparation was described, so I made up my mind I would try it. I did and today I am the happiest and healthiest woman living. I haven't a care in the world. Instead of running away from me, my children are now with me all the time. My husband tells me that my disposition is as near an angel's as any human being's can be, but of course he is prejudiced. I don't believe I have a nerve in my body now."

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 6-623

In addition to the large crowds from the neighboring districts, four car-loads of young people motored from Macleod. Light refreshments were served at 12 o'clock, after which the dance continued until the early hours of the morning.

The St. Andrews young ladies guild about 12 years ago became responsible for a private ward in the Macleod hospital, during all these years they have brought their contributions of linen, blankets, etc. A work done in a quiet way, never the less known by many. Year by year these young ladies have planned, purchased and sewed and still retain an ever fresh interest in their private ward. Recently a brass plate with the inscription "St. Andrews Young Ladies Guild" was placed on the door. The matron, Miss Camies is gratified at the tender and loving interest these young ladies are showing in such a tangible way and doubtless they in return consider it an honor to work for our hospital and competent staff of nurses.

Although the harvest has been an improvement on the past four years, yet it did not come up to expectations. The papers are very misleading, and the commercial travellers think they only have to ask a merchant for an order to get it. It was not only a light crop in many cases, but we had to contend with soil-drifting, grasshoppers, cut worms and hail. So you see the merchant has still one foot in and one foot out of the bog.
